Fragment of a manuscript page containing text in an ancient script, likely Pahlavi. The text is arranged in several columns and is heavily damaged, with significant portions missing and the edges irregular. The script is dense and cursive, typical of ancient Iranian languages. The fragment is located on the right side of the page, adjacent to the main text block.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of Arabic or Persian, covering the majority of the page. The text is arranged in several horizontal lines, with some sections appearing to be part of a larger, possibly damaged, document. The script is dense and characteristic of medieval Islamic manuscripts. There are several large, irregular gaps and tears in the parchment, particularly on the left side and bottom, where the text is missing or obscured. The ink is dark, and the parchment shows signs of age and wear.
