

Fol. 34. Recto: the beginning of a deed formula, repeated several times (probably made by a novice scribe practicing his art).

Hebrew.

Verso: A rhymed epistle in which the writer requests of the other party that he fulfill his communal pledge. Punctuation in a mixture of Babylonian and Tiberian vocalization (but using only Tiberian vowel points) and with many errors. No date.