THE BEST SEASON FOR TRAVEL IS ALL THE YEAR ROUND!!!!

It used to be that Summer was the only time to travel abroad -- people wanted placid Summer weather for "the crossing" -- but now that you can fly above the weather, look what you can do!

For instance, in Europe, everything comes to life during Fall and Winter. Plays open, concert and opera houses offer full repertoires, the social season is in full swing. There's a wider choice of accommodations, often for less than you would pay in Summer. In short, Americans who really want to see Europe at its best, go in Fall and Winter.

And speaking of seasons, remember that they're not the same - at the same time - all over the world. For instance, how about South America, where they are enjoying Spring and Summer while we're braving Fall and Winter? And in the Caribbean and Hawaii, the weather is always balmy.

Then, too, the time for getting to these pleasant places can be measured in minutes. When you fly the new Jet Clippers to Europe, for example,
